Community Choir welcomes spring with song

Elk Point Community Choir entertained a packed house at Elk Point Elementary School gymnasium at their annual Spring Concert on Sunday, May 3, with over 50 voices rising in a glorious celebration of the fresh new season.

The choir's first set ranged from a traditional spiritual, "I Feel the Spirit," to the easy listening sounds of "Come Softly To Me," with Barb Bury on piano, to their rendition of "Light a Candle," featuring solos by Debbie Lawrence and Shaun Sheplawy, finishing the set with the upbeat "Hey! Look Me Over!"

Laurie Keichinger provided the evening's first solo, a lovely and heartfelt number entitled "Masterpiece." Debbie Bury and Shaun Sheplawy brought a country flavor to the concert with "A Bad Goodbye," while Kelsey, Erin and Udo Mueller offered a family-style version of "We Rise Again." Shane Rebryna added a little comedy with a solo, "The Twins," accompanied by Lesley Rebryna.

The choir came back for their second set with an entertaining look at a famous composer in "Breathing With Beethoven." Udo Mueller added a bass guitar accompaniment to "Stand By Me," while Debbie Lawrence was the featured soloist in "Don't Cry for Me, Argentina," which featured Linda Peters on piano. The ladies of the choir wound up the first half of the concert with a 'fifties-flavored tune, "Johnny Angel," with piano accompaniment by Shane Rebryna.

A striped-vested barbershop quartet, Udo Mueller, Don Conrad, Garry Townsend and Don Bury, harmonized on "Aura Lee" and an emphatic ballad of a dastardly deed entitled "No! No! A Thousand Times No!"

A nattily attired Barb Bury and a purple-clad, single horned, one-eyed monster, in the person of her daughter Chelsey, brought us a 1950s comedy number, "Purple People Eater."

On a slow and easy note, Neil Salsbury crooned, "You Must Love Me."

Four hands were better than two in the last small-group presentation of the evening, a piano duet, "Canadian Capers," by Lesley and Shane Rebryna.

Clean-Up Elk Point today!

Get out those brooms, gather up your garbage bags and let's go! Tomorrow is the Chamber of Commerce "Clean Up Elk Point Day."

The Chamber is spearheading an all-out effort to tidy up the community, starting with the business district. Business owners and operators are asked to take a few minutes, or longer if necessary, tomorrow to go out and sweep sidewalks, pick up trash, and generally improve the appearance of your premises. If everyone in town followed suit, we would be the neatest town around!

May 3 to 9 is Pitch In Canada Week, and cleaning up the country starts right here at home!

OORP, Elks install new officers

Elk Point's Order of Royal Purple and BPO Elks Lodges held their joint installation on Sunday, April 26, with District Deputies Ed Sosnowski and Sharon Algot swearing in a new slate of officers for both lodges for the 1998-99 season. Assistant installing officers Alvina Schuhmacher and Ed Wowk presented each new officer for installation.

Stella Blazenko is the new Honored Royal Lady for the Royal Purple, taking over from Past Honored Royal Lady Adeline Zenko. Her team consists of Associate Royal Lady Irene Pilisko, Loyal Lady Lois Sharek, Lecturing Lady Jean Ference, Secretary Verna Lazicki, Treasurer Lois Yaremkevich, Conductress

Leona Moneta, Guard Cecile Sadowinski, Chaplain Lena Stepa, Historian Mary Bochon and Pianist Sharon Algot.

Rob Norman is the Elks' new Exalted Ruler, succeeding Past Exalted Ruler Bill Jennissen. Leading Knight George Dikeman, Loyal Knight Dwayne Yaremkevich, Lecturing Knight Walter Jendruck, Secretary Lawrence Pidluzny, Treasurer and Historian Bill Schuhmacher, Tyler Joe MacKinnon, Trustee Mike Chubey, Chaplain Allan Berg, Esquire Albert Boratynec and Inner Guard Ed Gregoraschuk make up the new slate of officers.

The new Exalted Ruler and Honored Royal Lady thanked the Installing Officers, their assistants and the drill team for their part in the ceremony, with HRL Blazenko adding thanks to the outgoing executive and congratulations to the new chair officers.

PHRL Zenko thanked the OORP members for all their support over the past two years, and accepted a gift from her successor. PER Jennissen congratulated ER Norman and thanked the outgoing officers for their help in a "hectic but fun year."

District Deputy Sharon Algot congratulated the incoming officers and said that with their help, "we hope we can increase membership" in the lodge. DD Wowk noted that both lodges are "great organizations" and "vital parts of the community."

during the evening were the winners of the 1998 Choir Bursaries. Erin Mueller and Chelsey Buryn are both using the awards to attend MusicCamrose music camp this summer.

The choir returned with a rousing "I'd Like to Teach the World to Sing," followed by a medley of "Broadway Classics" which included old favorites "Cabaret," "Send In the Clowns," "Sunrise, Sunset" and "Put On a Happy Face." From this they turned to a more serious subject, with "It Takes a Village to Raise a Child." Cheryl Kurash and Shane Rebryna were featured as soloists in "Go the Distance," from the movie "Hercules." The final number on the program, "Sing With Exultation," was met with a standing ovation, with the choir offering an encore, "Rollin' In An Unfriendly World."

MUSIC FAMILY STYLE by Kelsey, Erin and Udo Mueller. Erin also won a choir bursary.

From the FCSS desk...

Mother's Day is coming soon!

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

Don't forget Mother's Day. It is Sunday, May 10th.

The other day I was reading in the book: "Chicken Soup for the Mother's Soul," and I came across a letter written to Ann Landers that made a lot of sense. It was entitled, "Prayer for My Mother."

"Dear God, Now that I am no longer young, I have friends whose mothers have passed away. I have heard these sons and daughters say they never fully appreciated their mothers until it was too late to tell them.

"I am blessed with a dear mother who is still alive. I appreciate her more each day. My mother does not change, but I do. As I grow older and wiser, I realize what an extraordinary person she is. How sad that I am unable to speak these words in her presence, but they flow easily from my pen.

"How does a daughter begin to thank her mother for life itself? For the love, patience and just plain hard work that go into raising a child? For running after a toddler, for understanding a moody teenager, for tolerating a college student who knows everything? For waiting for the day when a daughter realizes how wise her mother really is?

"How does a grown woman thank a mother for continuing to be a mother? For being ready with advice (when asked) or remaining silent when it is most appreciated? For not saying, "I told you so," when she could have uttered these words dozens of times? For being essentially herself — loving, thoughtful, patient and forgiving?

"I don't know how, dear God, except to ask you to bless her as richly as she deserves and to help me live up to the example she has set. I pray that I will look as good in the eyes of my children as my mother looks in mine." This letter is signed, "A Daughter."

I like that letter because I think it describes a lot of mothers. Now, I know some mothers will feel they may fall short of the ideal mother. There are days, as we are raising our children, that we may have feelings of not doing well that day as a mother. However... in the whole perspective of things, it really is our children who teach us how to be mothers. Of course, most mothers would like to be the ideal mother. But they are too busy raising children to ask themselves if they are or are not the ideal mother. And, like I said, in the whole perspective of things, our children (now or some day), feel that we are just the best mother — ever... their "ideal" mother. So, with that thought in mind... Happy Mother's Day to all Mothers everywhere. You are important to all of us.

Lakeland Health Region works to "Clear the Air"

More than 1100 participants from across the Lakeland Health Region have signed up in the "Clear the Air" campaign aimed at making their homes smoke-free.

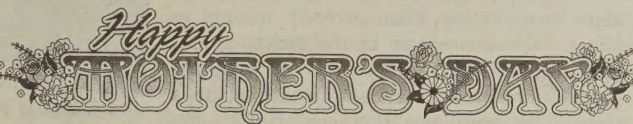

The campaign began on January 21 across Alberta and since then, as of April 19, the residents of exactly 1131 homes in the Region have called a toll-free number to register as smoke-free. And that puts the people who live in the Lakeland Regional Health Authority in third place out of 17 regional health authorities participating in the campaign.

Capital Health, made up of Edmonton, Sherwood Park, St. Albert, Leduc and Beaumont, leads the way with 2235 registered participants. East Central Regional Health Authority, which is the health region just to the south of Lakeland, is in second spot with 1199 homes registered as smoke-free.

Province-wide, the total has reached over 15,000 homes working at being smoke-free. Action on Smoking and Health hopes to reach its goal of 20,000 homes by May 9.

If Lakeland Health Region residents are still interested in signing up, they can do so by calling 1-800-905-5210, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. By registering, participants are eligible to win several prizes, including the grand prize of a family cruise aboard the world's first smoke free cruise ship, Carnival's MS Paradise.

The deadline for the contest has been extended to midnight Saturday, May 9 from the original May 1.

Living with wild neighbors

By the Canadian Federation of Humane Societies

The onset of warmer weather and budding flowers signals the birth of new animal life. Many people are thrilled at the sight of young birds testing their wings for the first time. Young squirrels playing a game of tag can provide humorous entertainment.

There is no question that animals enrich our lives. Whether in the wild or an urban environment, animals are an important part of the ecosystem and the world we share. They provide a link to the natural world that offsets the fast-paced, concrete society where many people live.

Unfortunately, some people cringe at the sight of wildlife, viewing them as pests that rummage through their garbage, climb onto their roofs and dig in their gardens. But what these people don't realize is that they are providing the opportunities these animals are seeking.

The behaviors of wild animals are driven almost exclusively by a need for food and shelter. People should keep this in mind when dealing with wildlife conflicts. Access to garbage pails, the garage, the roof, the chimney and the vegetable patch should be prevented if problems are to be avoided. Removing the intruding animal by trapping or killing it will not solve the problem; it will only leave a vacant territory for another animal to move into. Also, relocated animals seldom survive when moved to a new location.

But what if squirrels or skunks are already camped out in your attic, your garage or under your deck? The solution to this problem depends on the time of year. First of all, don't panic. Second, determine whether the animals are causing damage, what species they are and where they are getting in.

The ideal time to evict wild animals that have set up residence in your home is in the fall when they still have the opportunity to find alternate accommodation. In areas where winter brings snow and ice, it can be difficult or impossible for animals to survive without a den for even a few days. During the spring months from March to June when young are born it is inhumane to remove animals from their home.

It will be only a few weeks before the babies are old enough to venture outside and then you can begin to take action. Repairs should be done only when you are certain that all the animals have left the den site. After closing up the holes, the attic or den should be monitored for a few days for sounds of an animal trapped inside.

When conducting repairs, it is important to locate all access holes. Stiff wire mesh attached with long staples or nails works well as long as it is very secure with no gaps along the edges. Remember, this has been their home for some time so the animals will be very persistent in their efforts to regain entry. One area that is often neglected is the chimney. It should be covered with screening to prevent birds or animals from falling or climbing down.

The Pelechs in Paris -- Part IV

By Sherry Pelech
World Traveler

We woke at 8:00 and sat in the kitchen eating fresh Brie and apples and watched Francois whip up his specialty — Mousse au Chocolat. Once that was in the fridge, we watched him make his other specialty, Eggs Benedict. Francois takes gourmet cooking lessons from a chef at the Canadian Embassy!

After breakfast we headed out of the city once again. This time we went to Versailles — the palace Louis XIV built in response to Fouquet's little Vaux-Le-Vicomte. Too big! Too grand! Too gilded! Too decorated! There was a huge number of people there. (Lucky for us it was off-season.) At least 20 big tour buses and this enormous parking lot of cars. We stood a long time in lines to get into the castle. Then we stood in more lines to buy tickets. Then there were more lines as we waited to get into the rooms. We entered room after room, each one crowded with people from tours standing in bored masses listening to guides tell them more details about every room than anybody wanted to know. "The chiaroscuro of the artist's genius demonstrated in his use of paint and sculpture give this fine example of Baroque architecture a three dimensional quality, exemplified by this tiny square inch of wall panelling. Now if you will turn your attention to this other square inch, you will see..." I don't speak French but the glazed look on the faces of the tourists pretty well gave me the gist.

We developed a little dance technique we called The Versailles Shuffle. You bring your hands up to your shoulders, suck in your breath and with tiny steps, sidle sideways, saying "Pardon. Excuse me. Pardon. Pardon." There were signs posted everywhere warning us about pickpockets. And others admonishing us about the flashes on our cameras. "Interdit!" "Verboten!" "Nyet!" "Forbidden!" Everyone pretty well ignored that sign. In at least ten major languages. My favorite sign was the one that informed us, "Only those with Official Tour Guide Badges are allowed to make comments!" Yeah, right!

One room of major interest was the queen's bedchamber with an enormous, canopied and plumed bed where the queen gave birth to all her children, in full view of the members of the court. (They had the good taste to cordon off the room with a railing so at least people couldn't sit on the bed with her.) I'm not even going to comment on this arrangement. (No official badge.)

At one point, Louis XIV had 20,000 people living at his court in Versailles. Not having too trusting a nature, he preferred to have his Counts and Dukes close at hand where he could keep an eye on them instead of them being off somewhere on their estates, plotting treason. We went through room after room, gilded with gold, carved plaster frescoes and fabulous paintings. We were tired of the ostentation by the time we got to the famous "Hall of Mirrors."

In a place like that you expect to feel a pro-

found sense of history. We probably could have, too, if we didn't have to suck it up through a sea of people. As it was, it was like going through a check-list. "Gold. Gilding. More gold. Statues. Crystal chandeliers. More gold. Mirrors. More mirrors. OK. We're out of here."

Just beyond the "Hall of Mirrors" was the "Peace Room" and beyond that, a "War Room." This room was filled with huge (we're talking 20 foot by 40 foot or bigger) paintings depicting battles from 'Clovis' about 400 AD to 'Napoleon' in the early 1800s. That's a lot of gore!

Having had quite enough by then, we went outside to view the fabulous gardens. The Palace of Versailles is more than a half mile long and is dwarfed by the gardens that surround it. We walked down a hill, past hundreds of ponds with amazing sculptures and fountains, (More gold. Ho-hum.) to a mile long canal. There was still miles to go before we would have reached the largest man-made lake in all of France, but fortunately we found a restaurant so we had a good excuse not to go further. 'La Flottille' is a little open-air cafe that has bilingual menus. 'Salade nicoise' is a 'Nice style salad' and 'La Gourmandise du Jour' is a 'Today Cake' while 'Croissant au beurre ou viennoiserie' is Crescent butter or viennoiserie which of course explains everything. After a vaguely odd lunch, we returned to the apartment.

If you are planning a little jaunt to France in the future, do yourself a favor. Instead of going to the more famous Versailles, which is so huge, you can't even begin to grasp the extent of it, go to Vaux-Le-Vicomte. It's just as beautiful, yet is small enough that you can see it in its entirety in one afternoon. AND it's way less crowded.

The Nutrition File
Heart healthy eating

Believe it or not, heart healthy eating is not as confusing as we often hear. Heart healthy eating is as easy as 1,2,3.

1. Eat a wide variety of nutritious foods. As you add more variety to your diet, you'll also be more likely to consume the 40 essential nutrients our bodies need every day.

2. Boost your fiber intake. The best sources of the type of fiber that helps lower high blood cholesterol levels are oat products such as oat bran and oatmeal, legumes such as kidney beans, chickpeas and lentils. Fruits such as apples, strawberries and citrus fruit are also great for fiber.

3. Cut down your total fat intake. Most of the fat we eat comes from three ways we prepare food and from high fat snack foods and baked goods.

Choose lower fat snack foods such as fresh fruit, yogurt or pretzels. Prepare food without adding extra fat: bake, broil or steam instead of fry. Serve foods without high fat sauces or gravies. Use lower fat salad dressings and lightly spread breads. Reduce fat when cooking: remove skin from poultry, drain fat from cooked meat and reduce the oil or fat called for in recipes.

Challenge yourself and take a step or two toward healthy eating.

Alex Kurash Memorial Award presented to George Danyluk

By Doug Bassett
Sports News Hound

This week's story is dedicated in memory of my father, John Bassett, who passed away three years ago on this day, May 5, 1995. He used to tell me, "They'll remember you when you're gone, but not for long." Well, I hate to say it, but I think he was wrong. I still think of him every day.

Hurray, Hurray, the 5th of May, Baseball season starts today. So pack your hockey bag away, get out the bat and ball, let's play!

After last week's article the response has been super. We now have a ball team at every level, and there is even the possibility of two teams in some of the younger groups. Thanks for coming out to sign up. We have developed some great facilities, so let's keep the ball rolling in Elk Point for years to come. Now, the only problem is, as usual, getting enough volunteers to work with the teams. Not to worry, this usual ly has a way of working itself out. This week, ready or not, most of the teams will be playing their first league game, so I will touch base with you next week on how our teams are doing.

This past week the annual Alex Kurash Memorial trophy was awarded at the F. G. Miller High School by Louise Kurash. Louise was involved in Minor Hockey herself for many years as secretary, and gave the pee-wee boys a short speech on her late husband, Alex. She told the boys that Alex like to be involved with the teams and for many years, from the time their son Kevin was in novice, Alex helped, usually as the team's assistant coach. He believed in fair play, and always liked to see recognition for players that don't get any glory but still work hard.

The criteria for the Alex Kurash award is a pee-wee player that (1) improved his playing skills, (2) had a positive attitude, (3) is coachable and (4) has eagerness to learn. Chosen by the coaching staff of the Pee-wee Blades, this year's winner of the Alex Kurash Memorial Award was George Danyluk. George is a very quiet player, with a good attitude, is very competitive, and has noticeably improved this year as a first year pee-wee defenceman. Good job, George!

Today I would like to say hello and good luck to Pat and Helene Brodwin, who celebrated their anniversary yesterday. The Brodwins will be leaving us this summer, another family that has been transferred to Lloydminster, and will be greatly missed by this community. Over the past year, I had a lot of fun in my column, teasing Pat about how brutal the Broncos were, or how the Leafs and Flames would be the first teams on the golf tour, or about the leprechauns on St. Paddy's Day. Pat told me that he doesn't get mad, he gets even. I think he has been trying to find some pictures of my New Year's Eve birthday parties.

The truth is, Pat is a good sport, and a dedicated volunteer, not only in minor hockey as team manager or assistant coach, but also as a volunteer fireman, and will be hard to replace. Last fall Pat helped me draft up guidelines for minor hockey team managers to follow.

Helene, who was also very involved with volunteer work at the school, put up with a lot of flack as the A. G. Ross Arena booth scheduler for the past two seasons. I'm going to miss her. She liked to give me a hard time, when our teams gave her short notice about a game, or did not bother to tell her at all.

Then there's the two boys that are leaving the Elk Point system. The opportunities are there and I know these two players will do well. Mark, who is already very talented, has a great shot and skates very well. Blake looks like he may make a good goalie some day. I think the reason that Blake is becoming so good in net is all the practice shots that he gets from his older brother Mark, down in their basement. The Brodwins are starting to build a new house in Lloydminster and I wonder if the draftsmen remembered to include the mini-Saddledome in their basement. It's going to be tough being a Flames fan living in Lloydminster with all the Oiler owners that live there now. Hopefully these guys will return someday to play on our teams. It will make a good story!

Lions Journey for Sight

By Doug Bassett
Elk Point & District Lions Club

Saturday morning, the Elk Point and District Lions Club held their annual 10 km. Journey for Sight. Some years in early May the weather can be very nasty, but this year it was very comfortable, a beautiful warm morning for walking with just a slight breeze to cool things down a bit. This year there were only eight walkers, down from twelve last year, but the pledges were actually $10 more than last year, bringing in a total of $2214.

This would be the twelfth year for the Oil Patch Challenge, and for the third year in a row, bringing in the most pledges was E-Can Oilfield Services. This year's total was $1320, which was up $300 from last year. This was quite a surprise considering how slow it is in the oilpatch this year compared to a year ago. The club would like to thank walkers Cheryl Lawrence and Catherine Lohstrae from E-Can for their hard work and support once again.

The most senior walker again this year, and a long time Lions member, is sixty-something Marshall Kachmar. The youngest walker this year was Catherine Campbell, who along with her sister Kristen won the school challenge for the Elementary School. Their mother Sue, who has been a big supporter of the Journey for Sight over the years, walked for Kudu Industries. The other two walkers this year were Jeremy Wetsch walking for Ranger Oil and Rhonda Rupchan who walked for Total Welding.

This would be the last year for Journey for Sight chairperson Jerry Kopeck, who did another fine job, as he has for the past 5 or 6 years. Jerry will be moving this summer with a job transfer to Lloydminster, and the club will really miss this dedicated volunteer. Knowing Jerry as well as I do, I'm sure he will get involved in some group in Lloydminster next year. The club would like to wish Jerry and his family the best of luck in Lloydminster.

Over the years, the Lions Club has raised money with bingos and other fundraisers, and in 1997 alone, they donated $20,074, most of this money going to local groups in our community. We are always looking for interested volunteers who wish to get involved, to come out and join the club. The club meets on the second and fourth Thursdays of the month at the Curling Club.

The next function for the Lions will be the annual Jan Frisby Memorial Slowpitch Tournament, that will be held on May 23 and 24. Any interested ball teams may contact Lyle Frisby at 724-3801 or Keith Campbell at 724-4391.

SMALL BUT MIGHTY GROUP of walkers raised $2214 in the Lions Club Journey for Sight last Saturday. Good going, gang!

Elk Point's "Fun and Furry" Horse Show attracts nearly 50 riders

By Connie Capjack
Elk Point Agricultural Society

Sunday, April 26 was a beautiful day for the first training horse show of the season.

The judge for the day was Bob Klassen of Ardrossan. There were a total of 48 competitors, an excellent turnout considering what Saturday was like.

High Point Senior and Junior awards were provided UFA of Vermilion who gave two beautiful halters. Senior High Point, 18 and Over, was won by Kim Eremko riding Southern Wasatch, runner-up was Mary Balan riding Beggar. Junior High Point, 17 and under was won by Ashley Larson riding Tivio, runner-up was Jamie Schnurer riding Panda.

Rylee McKenzie riding Yogi was awarded the Furriest Horse prize sponsored by Canadian Salt Co., Lindbergh.

Thanks to our sponsors, Feed Rite of St. Paul, Canadian Salt Co. of Lindbergh, Lakeland Saddlery of Vermilion, Northern Veterinary Services of Dewberry and UFA of Vermilion who provided all the prizes for the Horse Show. The Ag Society Livestock Division would like to thank all those that participated and volunteered their time to help out with the show. Thanks to Hughie Krucik, our show secretary, Daphne Schnurer and Marion Ryan, our ring stewards, Shauna Campbell, our announcer for the day, Lynde Dybvig, who was in charge of making sure everyone was in the holding ring, Paul Gaugler, our gate person, Bill and Lorraine Gaugler, our prize organizers and wherever help was needed, Chris Shankowski, Josie Veer, Brian Schnurer, our groundsperson, Norma Lorensen and Sandra Davies, our booth workers, and a big thank you to whoever helped make the show a great success and running smoothly. Thanks to all of you.

SENIOR HIGH POINT WINNER — Kim Eremko and her horse, Southern Wasatch, won the halter in the Senior division of the "Fun and Furry" Horse Show, presented by Connie Capjack.

JUNIOR HIGH POINT went to Ashley Larson and Tivio, who had an excellent day at the first show of the year. Connie Capjack makes the presentation.

Remember the Wunderdogs?

ELK POINT WUNDERDOGS were a big hit with local residents a few years ago, with their skilled canine antics. The group has since dissolved, and last week two of the original Wunderdogs, Lancelot and his mother Inky, were on hand with original club members Hughie Krucik and Ruth Stone to present two stopwatches for use at horse shows and $300 remaining in the club's bank account to the Elk Point Agricultural Society Livestock Division's Connie Capjack. The funds will be used to purchase outdoor speakers for the fairgrounds.

THANK YOU, SPONSORS!

Heinsburg offers Internet access to the community

By Rhonda Noyce
Staff Writer

Thursday night was a very special night for the staff and students at Heinsburg School, as they launched their Internet availability and welcomed the community with open arms.

You couldn't help but feel the cozy atmosphere in the school during their open house for the community.

"Events like these create a tremendous amount of enthusiasm for the students and staff here," said Principal Lorne Young. "It's infectious. It is the stuff we do all the time, but we don't showcase it all the time."

Not only could parents view the various student projects all throughout the school, they could also see the results of an effort by a number of people at the school in hooking Heinsburg up to the Internet.

Through the federal Community Access Program (CAP) a steering committee at the school received $30,000 towards getting the school on the 'Net. With the first portion of the funds, the school purchased seven Pentium computers, a laser printer and a scanner.

Since introducing the Internet to the school, Librarian Cathy Botting said she's seen an amazing change in the students.

"They have Internet fever, computer fever," Botting said. "During one class I asked them to look for information on the solar system and within three minutes all of students had found something on the topic."

The school also hired a computer technician, Robin Garnier, to look after the Internet stations and assist the students and the members of the community who use the setups. The Internet stations are available to Heinsburg residents, as well as residents in the three surrounding communities of Dewberry, Fishing Lake and Frog Lake, on Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

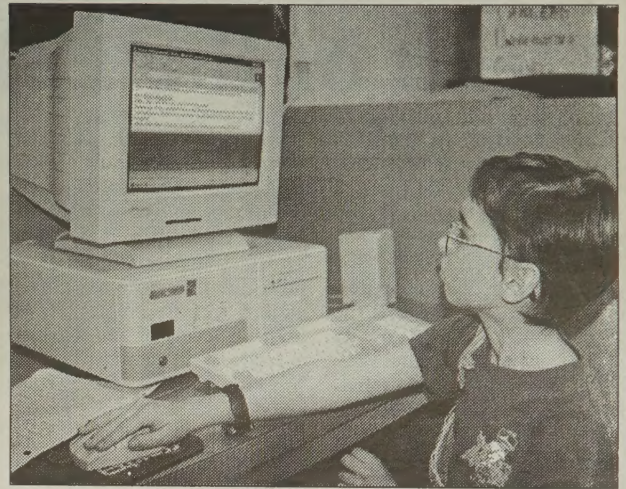

Although the grand opening of the CAP program was one of the main features for the evening, there were many other activities to partake in during the open house. The Elementary choir sang a cheerful collection of tunes, the Junior Speech Showcase featured some of the school's best presenters and keynote speaker Kelvin Plain talked about instilling the quality of resiliency in all people, young and old.

Some of the displays throughout the school included the Dinosaur Den, science exhibits, Native arts and foods, power point presentations and industrial arts job safety skills.

Young said they hold community events at the school at least two times a year, such as Christmas concerts and talents shows.

"The school is one of the centres of activity in this community ... It is a way of bringing all three communities together and it gives parents a chance to visibly see what their students are doing," said Young.

Aaron Jurak, Grade 6, gives a lesson on how to use the Internet.

Richard and Juanita, Grade 11, show off their snazzy welding outfits.

Heart of the Lakeland holds 1998 AGM

The Heart of the Lakeland Marketing Association held its third Annual General Meeting in St. Paul last week, and got ready for another busy year. President Dolores Gilbertson gave a comprehensive report on the past year, and said the association is proud of its accomplishments to date. With continued support from member communities and tourism industry businesses, "we will continue to promote the Lakeland area, its facilities, tourism operations and attractions in hopes that we can increase the tourist trade in all of our communities."

The meeting featured two guest speakers, Ralph Peterson of Price Waterhouse and Russ Tynan of the Alberta Tourism Partnership Corporation. Peterson is the interim manager of Travel Alberta, and says the changeover is progressing well. They will provide continuity in government funding to the tourism destination regions (TDRs), the provincial tourism 1-800 number and visitors' centres and have met with the TDRs to discuss marketing and plans for the future. They are currently assembling a 16 member marketing council to assist in creating and implementing a marketing strategy.

Travel Alberta has two key priorities, a $1.8 million in Alberta marketing campaign and expanding the use of multi-media, with a new Internet website now being developed. "Our focus is on the future, and ensuring marketing continuity through a consultation process," Peterson said. Questionnaires have been mailed out to collect input from all levels of the tourism industry, and Peterson says it is "important they all participate" in the survey. Six workshops are also being held in conjunction with the questionnaires.

The matter of funding came up in the question period following Peterson's presentation, and Russ Tynan acknowledged there is a particular problem with the Heartland TDR, in which Heart of the Lakeland is one of ten destination marketing organizations. Tynan said the Heartland is "uniquely structured," reaching across the width of the province, and this has "been a problem since day one." In particular, the problem has been in the distribution of funds. Although Heartland receives extra funding because of its geographic diversity, the major part of the funds goes to "the three old players" — David Thompson, Midnight Twilight and Battle River DMOs — who have attempted to keep their old tourist zone organizations intact. Heart of the Lakeland, for example, received $5500 last year as compared to $51,000 for David Thompson and $32,000 for Battle River, Ms Gilbertson said. "There's no way we can operate without funds. We should at least get enough to keep our office open."

Tynan said he wasn't aware of the issues on funding allocation, and said he would see if these can be resolved. He "found it really interesting" that Heart of the Lakeland's per capita membership fee for municipalities is the lowest in Alberta, and about 15% of what it previously was with the former association. Per capita fees are approximately $3.25 in major cities and considerably higher than that in mountain resort communities. "The municipalities should begin to understand the greater scope" tourism marketing plays in their economy, Tynan said.

As Alberta's tourism marketing undergoes changes, Tynan feels it is "a good opportunity to make a case to the government for additional resources," which would be dedicated back to the promotion of industry. "The case we must make is that the tourism industry has been a positive contributor to Alberta's bottom line."

Grade Fives do well at Optimist public speaking competition

Bernice Capjack-Hugo took six of her Grade 5 students to the Optimist Speaking Contest held in Edmonton on April 18, 1998. All six students won at the club level and then went on to participate at zone level on Saturday, April 25.

This speaking contest is for ages 9 to 15.

Valerie Friesen placed second at the zone level and Corry Bezpalko placed third.

The students all received plaques, medallions and participation certificates. The students did very well, as there is no division as to ages, and Ms Capjack hopes they will try again next year.

Spring's here — and so are our latest spring titles

By Michele Ducek
Librarian

At the risk of jinxing the weather, I would say that spring is definitely here (last week's little snowstorm was just much-needed precipitation). And our latest batch of spring titles by some popular authors have arrived. Most of these books have a waiting list so if you haven't already signed up to read the latest from your favorite author, come on down and go through our list.

New in adult fiction:

Bill and Fiona Bailey take in young Sammy Love, newly orphaned son of rough-hewn Irishman Davey Love and Sammy's arrival causes an uproar in the Bailey household in The Bondage of Love by Catherine Cookson.

Elbryn and Pony thought that evil had been driven from the land of Corona but hordes of goblins and bloody-capped powries are advancing ever deeper into civilized lands in The Demon Spirit by R. A. Salvatore, the sequel to The Demon Awakens.

Radio talk show host Dr. Susan Chandler decides to explore the phenomenon who disappear and are later found to have become victims of killers who prey on the lonely and insecure and discover a killer who targets lonely women on cruise ships in You Belong to Me by Mary Higgins Clark.

A prosperous couple in Berlin adopt a poor orphaned girl who becomes an older sister to their own daughter. When the parents disappear in the madness of Nazi Germany, the young women must flee to Switzerland and life is never the same in Legacy of Silence by Belva Plain.

When Dr. Kim Reggis' daughter falls ill after eating a fast food meal, he launches an independent investigation into how and why it happened that endangers not only his life, but the lives of those around him in Toxin by Robin Cook.

In Switcheroo by Olivia Goldsmith, an unfaithful husband gets his comeuppance when his wife and his mistress, who look like each other, switch places — the wife to get the romantic and exciting lover he is to his mistress and the mistress to get the husband and home of her own she craves.

And the latest in adult non-fiction:

Fibromyalgia & Chronic Myofascial Pain Syndrome: A Survival Manual by Devin Starlanyl and Mary Ellen Copeland offers the first comprehensive patient guide for managing fibromyalgia syndrome (FMS) or myofascial pain syndrome (MPS).

The Pain Relief Breakthrough by Julian Witaker and Brenda Adderly looks at the use of magnets to relieve backaches, arthritis, menstrual cramps, carpal tunnel syndrome, sports injuries and more.
